DISTRICT REPORTS ON WEATHER AND CROPS

For the week ending on the 22nd November 1922.

Summary.—Except in most parts of the Rajshahi Division, light to moderate rainfall was general throughout the Presidency. The sowings of spring crops are well advanced, and the harvesting of winter paddy is progressing. The condition and prospects of standing crops are generally good. Insufficiency of fodder is still reported from the flood affected parts of North Bengal and Faridpur. The average price of common rice for the Presidency has fallen by about 0·6 per cent. as compared with that of the previous week.

J. GHOSH,

for Director of Agriculture, Bengal.

DACCA, the 25th November 1922.

MONTHLY WEATHER AND CROP REPORT OF BENGAL FOR OCTOBER 1922.

I. Character of the season.—During the early part of the month rainfall was general throughout the province. The fall was in excess of the normal in the Eastern districts and generally moderate elsewhere. The usual rainfall statement is appended.

II. Progress of agricultural operations.—The steeping and washing of jute were finished. Preparation of lands for spring crops was progressing briskly. Sowings of pulses and other spring crops were making good progress. High land paddy in some Western districts suffered through absence of rain during the latter part of the month.

III. State of standing crops.—The condition of winter paddy and other standing crops was reported to be satisfactory except in the flooded tracts of North Bengal.

IV. Prospects and probable outturn.—The prospects of winter paddy were reported to be good except in the water-logged tracts of North Bengal.

V. Damage to standing crops.—Considerable damage to paddy was caused by heavy floods in North Bengal.

VI. Condition of agricultural stock.—Sporadic cases of cattle-disease were reported from Nadia, Murshidabad, Khulna, Burdwan, Birbhum, Hooghly, Darjeeling, Malda, Mymensingh, Chittagong, Chittagong Hill Tracts. Loss of cattle was also reported from flooded areas.

VII. Failure of pasturage and fodder.—No scarcity of fodder was reported from any part of the province except in the flooded tracts.

VIII. Prices of food-grains.—During the second fortnight of the month under review the prices of common rice of the cheapest quality rose in three districts, fell in ten, and remained stationary in the rest of the province. It ranged from 5 seers 4 chitaks in Chittagong to 9 seers 5 chitaks in Dinajpur.

IX. Condition of agricultural population.—The condition of agricultural population was reported to be fair except in the flood-affected tracts of North Bengal.

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA.

CALCUTTA TRADE FLUCTUATIONS.

THE following tables are intended to show the trade by all routes, i.e., by rail, river, canal, road and sea, of the Calcutta block* in certain selected articles during the six months, April to September, 1922, as compared with the corresponding period of 1921 and 1920. The statistics have been compiled from returns furnished by the Collector of Customs, Calcutta, Railway Audit Offices, Steamer Companies, the Commissioners for the Port of Calcutta, the Collectors of the 24-Parganas and Howrah, and the Assistant Engineer, Calcutta Canals.

General Summary.

Imports.—The imports of rice, including paddy†, into Calcutta* by rail, river, canal, road, and sea (coastwise) during the six months, April to September, 1922, amounted to 6,119,000 maunds as against 7,269,000 maunds in the corresponding period of the preceding year,—a decrease of 1,150,000 maunds or 16 per cent. There was also a decrease of 19 per cent in the imports of coal and coke (46,264,000 maunds as against 57,464,000 maunds a year ago). The value of the imports by rail, river, road, and sea (coastwise) of Indian cotton piece-goods showed an increase of 32 per cent, the total value amounting to Rs. 6.30 lakhs as against Rs. 4.79 lakhs in 1921. The quantity of indigo imported during the six months, April to September, 1922, decreased from 754 maunds last year to 272 maunds. The imports of raw jute amounted to 1,855,000 bales as against 1,630,000 bales,—an increase of 225,000 bales or 13 per cent. The importation of gunny bags, on the other hand, showed a decrease of 31 million bags (123 million bags against 154 millions in the preceding year). The total imports of oilseeds (linseed and rape and mustard seed) increased by 989,000 maunds, or 24 per cent, from 4,183,000 maunds to 5,172,000 maunds, but those of sugar declined by 86,000 maunds, or 27 per cent, to 232,000 maunds. The imports of tea also decreased from 1,260,000 maunds to 1,233,000 maunds or by 2 per cent.

Exports.—The value of the exports of cotton piece-goods, foreign, from Calcutta* by all routes during the six months, April to September, 1922, increased by 25 per cent from Rs. 9.70 lakhs to Rs. 12.12 lakhs. The exports of gunny bags (including the exports by sea to foreign countries) decreased from 519 million to 514 million bags, and the shipments of gunny bags to other Indian ports decreased from 29 to 25 millions in number in the period under review. The quantity of kerosene oil despatched from Calcutta and Budge-Budge by internal routes and by sea (coastwise) showed a decrease of 133,000 maunds or 5 per cent, from 2,934,000 maunds to 2,801,000 maunds.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON THE SEPARATION OF JUDICIAL AND EXECUTIVE FUNCTIONS.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

APPOINTMENT DEPARTMENT.

CALCUTTA, THE 19TH AUGUST 1921.

RESOLUTION—No. 6287 A.

THE Governor in Council has had under consideration the action to be taken on the following resolution which was carried at the meeting of the Bengal Legislative Council held on the 5th April 1921 :—

“This Council recommends to the Government that early steps be taken for the total separation of the judicial from the executive functions in the administration of this Presidency.”

The Local Government adhere to the view expressed on their behalf in Council that, as a preliminary step, it is desirable that a committee should be formed to elaborate a practical working scheme for the separation of executive and judicial functions in the administration of Bengal and to report on the cost thereof. Upon receipt of their report it will be possible to decide upon a line of future action with a more definite appreciation of what is actually involved than is at present practicable. The committee which the Governor in Council has decided to appoint for the purpose will be composed as follows :—

The Hon'ble Mr. Justice W. E. Greaves, Bar.-at-Law, President.

Mr. F. C. French, C.S.I., I.C.S.

Sir Ashutosh Chaudhuri, Kt., M.L.C.

Raja Manmatha Nath Rai Chaudhuri of Santosh, M.L.C.

Mr. G. Morgan, M.L.C.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the resolution be forwarded to the President and each member of the committee.

ORDERED also that the resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

By order of the Governor in Council,

J. DONALD,

Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal (offg.).

Report of the Committee appointed to elaborate a practical working scheme for the separation of executive and judicial functions in the administration of Bengal and to report on the cost thereof.

1. Reference.—The reference to the Committee was “to elaborate a practical working scheme for the separation of executive and judicial functions in the administration of Bengal and to report on the cost thereof.” The advisability or otherwise of the separation accordingly does not fall within the scope of the reference, and the Committee have taken no evidence on this question.

The controversy with regard to the separation of functions began in the year 1853, or earlier, and the letters and papers with regard thereto are collected in two volumes published by the Bengal Secretariat Press in 1908 and prepared in the office of the Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal. The Committee have read and considered those volumes, which are chiefly useful, for their purpose, as showing where judicial and executive functions overlap, and the difficulties which are said to arise from the overlapping.

2. Previous schemes.—From time to time schemes for separation have been put forward, and the Committee have considered four of these, namely—

- (a) the scheme of Mr. Romesh Chunder Dutt, C.I.E., put forward in August 1893, which will be found at pages 512-516 of Volume II of the volumes referred to in the last paragraph;
- (b) the scheme of Mr. C. W. Bolton, put forward in 1900, which will be found at pages 607-614 of the aforesaid Volume II;
- (c) the scheme of Sir Harvey Adamson, put forward in 1908, which will be found at the end of the Hon'ble Mr. P. C. Mitter's book entitled “The question of judicial and executive separation and the better training of judicial officers,” published in 1913 in Calcutta by the Bee Press;
- (d) the scheme of the Hon'ble Mr. P. C. Mitter, put forward in 1913, which will be found at pages 15-23 of Mr. Mitter's book above referred to, the details of the scheme being set forth in Appendices A and C of that book and the estimated cost in Appendix B.

Mr. Romesh Chunder Dutt was Commissioner of the Orissa Division and at one time District Magistrate of Midnapore, and he was also at one time a Subdivisional Officer. Mr. Bolton, after the usual service in the districts in the executive branch, was Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal between 1896 and 1900 and then became member of the Board of Revenue.

Sir Harvey Adamson was Home Member of the Government of India in 1908 and the Hon'ble Mr. P. C. Mitter, now one of the Ministers under the reform scheme, is a vakil who has had a large practice in the High Court (chiefly civil) and has always been a student of public questions.

3. Mr. Romesh Chunder Dutt's scheme.—According to Mr. Dutt's scheme the District Magistrate, who was to be called the District Officer, was to be employed purely on executive and revenue work, and was to be relieved of his judicial duties, which were to be transferred to the District Judge. The staff employed under the District Magistrate in purely revenue and executive work were to remain under him, whilst the staff employed under the District Magistrate in purely judicial work were to be under the control of the District Judge, and a division of the existing staff under the District Magistrate was to be made to carry this into effect. He proposed that Assistant Magistrates should be employed purely on revenue, executive and police work under the District Officer, and that, on promotion to be Joint Magistrates, they should be employed purely on judicial work and be subordinate to the District Judge.

Mr. Dutt estimated that, in the conditions which existed in 1893, the District Judge could cope with the additional work thrown on him with the assistance of the Joint Magistrate, who, when necessary, was to be vested with the powers of an Assistant Sessions Judge and empowered to hear petty appeals. Where there was no Joint Magistrate, he thought that the District Judge could obtain sufficient assistance from a senior and selected Deputy Magistrate who, if necessary, could be empowered to hear petty appeals. In dealing with subdivisions he estimated that the judicial work of a subdivision could be done by the Subdivisional Officer, who would become an entirely judicial officer under the control of the District Judge, whilst a Sub-Deputy Collector could do all the revenue and administrative work of the subdivision. This recommendation he subsequently modified to this extent, that he considered that there should be a Deputy Collector, and not a Sub-Deputy Collector, to carry out the revenue and administrative work of a subdivision. We cannot find that Mr. Dutt's scheme took into account the necessary occasional absences from the headquarters of the subdivision of the officer in charge of revenue and administrative work, which would create difficulties with regard to the opening of the sub-treasury. We have not been able to find any direct expression of his views with regard to the person or persons to exercise the powers under the preventive sections of the Criminal Procedure Code.

4. Mr. Bolton's scheme.—Mr. Bolton's scheme recommends the appointment in each district of a District Judge to exercise the powers then vested in an Assistant Sessions Judge under the Criminal Procedure Code, with the exclusive power of hearing appeals from magistrates of all grades and applications for revision of their decisions. He suggests that this officer should distribute all cases as they arise among the subordinate magistrates, or that he should assign this duty and the power of receiving and distributing complaints to one of those magistrates.

He recommends the appointment of a Divisional Judge in every division, and that he should exercise the powers of a District and Sessions Judge under the Codes of Criminal and Civil Procedure throughout the division, and that he should control the District Judge and try all sessions cases which the District Judge was not competent to try, and that he should have the power to transfer cases from one court to another.

He further recommends that at the headquarters of each district there should be one or more subordinate, Joint, Assistant or Deputy Magistrates, whose exclusive duties should be to try criminal cases triable by a magistrate, the appointment to be ordinarily for a period of five years and the power of supervision and control of such magistrates to be vested exclusively in the District Judge, the District Officer ceasing to exercise these or any judicial or appellate powers.

Mr. Bolton would retain with the District Officer and his subordinates the preventive powers of the Criminal Procedure Code, subject to an appeal to or revision by the Commissioner of the Division.

With regard to subdivisions, Mr. Bolton would in large subdivisions have two officers, a Deputy Magistrate for judicial work with, where necessary, charge of the sub-treasury, and a Deputy Collector for revenue and executive work. In the smaller subdivisions he would allow, for the time being, the combination of functions to continue, the Subdivisional Officer being subordinate to the District Judge for judicial purposes and to the District Officer for revenue and executive purposes. His scheme further provides for the inspection of magistrates and Subdivisional Officers by the District Judge.

Mr. Bolton estimates the cost of his scheme, exclusive of buildings, at 5 lakhs a year. The details of the cost of the scheme are to be found at page 614 of Volume II of the volumes referred to in paragraph 1 of this report.

He would separate judicial and executive functions entirely. He would allow all subordinate civil service officers and, if possible, the officers of the executive branch, after a fixed number of years, to make a final choice between judicial and executive, but, during the period antecedent to final choice, he would gazette all such officers to Commissioners' divisions, to be deputed to executive or judicial duties by orders of the Commissioner, a change from one duty to the other during this period to be made at intervals of not less than two years. He would consult High Courts freely on the transfer and promotion of all officers permanently allotted to the judicial branch of the service. At the headquarters of each district he would station a District Officer and a senior magistrate, the former to exercise revenue functions, to control the police, to exercise the preventive sections of the Criminal Procedure Code, and to discharge all miscellaneous executive duties, the latter (either a member of the Indian Civil Service or a Deputy Magistrate of experience) to be the head of the magistracy and try important criminal cases, hear appeals from second and third class magistrates, perform criminal revision work and inspect magistrates' courts. If these duties do not fully occupy his time, he would be appointed Additional District Judge and be employed in civil work or in inspecting civil courts or as an Assistant Sessions Judge.

Sir Harvey Adamson would depute some of the officers at the headquarters of a district to executive and the remainder to judicial work; he would re-arrange subdivisional boundaries and divide each district into judicial subdivisions and executive sub-districts not necessarily co-terminous.

As a result of the scheme he states that a district would be divided into (a) executive and (b) judicial, each being subdivided into headquarters and sub-districts or subdivisions, the executive staff being under the District Officer and consisting of Indian Civilians, Deputy Collectors and Sub-Deputy Collectors at headquarters, with either an Indian Civilian or a Deputy Collector in each subdivision. Similarly, the judicial staff would be under the senior magistrate, consisting, at headquarters, of Indian Civilians, Deputy Magistrates and Sub-Deputy Magistrates, and in subdivisions of an Indian Civilian or a Deputy Magistrate.

Under this scheme the District Officer would be empowered as a District Magistrate and other executive officers as first class magistrates to perform the preventive functions under the Criminal Procedure Code, Chapter VIII (omitting section 106) to Chapter XII.

6. The Hon'ble Mr. P. C. Mitter's scheme.—The broad features of Mr. Mitter's scheme are as follows: He would place all officers who exercise any judicial powers (civil or criminal) under the District Judge, who would have the supervision of the judicial work of a district, both civil and criminal. He would relieve the present District Magistrate of his magisterial duties, calling him the District Officer. He would, where necessary in a district, appoint an Additional District and Sessions Judge and one or two Civil Judges to exercise the powers of a Subordinate Judge, giving them the criminal powers of an Assistant Sessions Judge and the powers now exercised by the District Magistrate under Chapters VIII to XII of the Criminal Procedure Code. He thinks that, in districts where the work is not very heavy, no additional District and Sessions Judge will be needed, but only one additional Judge to exercise the powers of a Subordinate Judge, Assistant Sessions Judge and the judicial powers of the District Magistrate under the Criminal Procedure Code. Mr. Mitter further proposes that the District Judges and all judicial officers under them should be placed under the High Court in all matters, namely, pay, promotion, leave, suspension, punishment, etc., and that they should have no concern with the District Officer, Commissioner or Local Government, and he suggests that the Judicial Department of the Local Government should be placed under the High Court.

He suggests further the division of the judicial service into two branches, namely, imperial for the whole of India and provincial for each province, discussing the recruitment, training, pay, etc., of the two branches. This question, however, seems to concern the country as a whole, and accordingly to be outside the scope of the reference to us, and we think it need not be further pursued by this Committee.

Mr. Mitter has elaborated in considerable detail how the changes proposed by him would affect the personnel in the present twenty-seven districts into which Bengal is divided. He states the staff employed in or about the year 1913 in judicial work both civil and criminal and in revenue and administrative work, and in parallel columns indicates the staff in his opinion necessary when the separation has been carried out. In so doing he has not separated the staff required in his opinion at the sadar station and in the subdivisions, which makes it difficult to test his figures with the staff estimated by the District Magistrates whom we have examined, to be necessary, if separation were effected. Mr. Mitter has worked out an estimate of the cost of his proposals in each district and estimates that there would be a total yearly saving of Rs. 1,66,800. The Chittagong Hill Tracts, Darjeeling and Jalpaiguri are not included in the scheme. Mr. Mitter has not taken into account the cost of any additional buildings which separation would necessitate. Possibly under his scheme he thinks no additional buildings would be necessary. Again he has not taken into account any increase of clerical and other staff which separation would necessitate, but again possibly under his scheme he thinks that no such increase would be necessary. Mr. Mitter unfortunately felt himself precluded by his present position from giving evidence before us, so that we were unable to avail ourselves of his assistance on these points. The Committee, however, desire to acknowledge the assistance which they have gained by a perusal of his book, copies of which he very kindly supplied to the members of the Committee.

7. The present administration of criminal justice.—Before formulating any scheme ourselves it will be convenient to state briefly, but not exhaustively, the present system prevalent in the province, outside Calcutta, for the administration of civil and criminal justice.

The chief criminal judicial officer in the district is a District and Sessions Judge who presides at the trial of cases committed to Sessions, and also hears appeals from magistrates with first class powers. He is assisted in this work, where necessary, by an Additional District and Sessions Judge. District and Sessions Judges and Additional District and Sessions Judges are engaged in purely judicial work and take no part in the administration of the district, and have no executive functions generally speaking. They are under the control and supervision of the High Court, but are posted to districts by the Local Government, subject to the approval of the High Court.

The next criminal judicial officer is the Magistrate and Collector, who is a magistrate with first class powers (described in the Criminal Procedure Code as the District Magistrate); he can, and very occasionally does, hear criminal cases of special importance, but his judicial functions mainly consist in hearing appeals from magistrates with second and third class powers, and his most important work is the inspection and supervision of the criminal courts of the district, other than the courts of the District and Sessions Judge and Additional District and Sessions Judge. In some districts he is assisted by an Additional District Magistrate and Collector, who usually exercises the judicial and inspectional and supervisory functions of the District Magistrate and Collector. The District Magistrate and Collector, in addition to his judicial functions, exercises important administrative, revenue and executive functions, and it is he who is responsible for the peace and order of the district, and he exercises general control and direction over the police in criminal cases. The Additional District Magistrate and Collector, in districts where there is such an officer, also exercises important administrative, executive and revenue functions. The other criminal work of the district is carried out by Assistant Magistrates Assistant Collectors, Deputy Magistrates Deputy Collectors and Sub-Deputy Magistrates Sub-Deputy Collectors. These officers have, as the case may be, the powers of magistrates of the first, second or third class.

In some cases their duties are purely judicial, in others purely administrative and executive, including those connected with revenue, whilst some exercise judicial, administrative and executive and revenue functions. In the subdivisions of each district there is a Subdivisional Officer, who is either an Indian Civil Service officer or a Deputy Magistrate with the powers of a first class magistrate (he is described in the Criminal Procedure Code as the Subdivisional Magistrate); upon him falls the duty of inspecting the criminal courts of the subdivision, which however are also from time to time inspected by the District Magistrate; the Subdivisional Officer also exercises almost all the powers under the preventive sections of the Criminal Procedure Code.

The Deputy Magistrates Deputy Collectors, Assistant Magistrates Assistant Collectors, Sub-Deputy Magistrates Sub-Deputy Collectors and Subdivisional Officers are under the control and supervision of the District Magistrate and Collector and the Divisional Commissioner. Their promotion and posting is controlled by the Local Government.

8. Civil Work.—The civil work of the province, outside Calcutta, is performed by the District and Sessions Judge, by one or more Additional District and Sessions Judges, where they exist, by Sub-Judges and by Munsifs. These are purely judicial officers, and they perform no administrative or executive functions generally speaking. They are under the control and supervision of the High Court. It has not been thought necessary to refer to the appellate jurisdiction exercised by the High Court in civil and criminal cases.

9. Where the overlapping of judicial and executive functions occurs.—It will be clear from what has been stated in the last two paragraphs that the overlapping of judicial and executive functions occurs in the case of the District Magistrate and Collector, the Additional District Magistrate and Collector (in districts where there is such an officer), Assistant Magistrates Assistant Collectors (who are Indian Civilians), Deputy Magistrates Deputy Collectors and Sub-Deputy Magistrates Sub-Deputy Collectors, except, as regards these latter, in cases where they are employed in purely judicial or in purely administrative and executive functions, as the case may be.

10. Evidence.—The Committee have held twenty-two sittings and have examined twenty-one witnesses, whose evidence will be found in Appendix A to this report.

Of the witnesses examined, one was a Commissioner of a Division, nine were District Magistrates, one was an Additional District Magistrate, two were District Judges, and three were Subdivisional Officers.

Of the other witnesses examined, two were barristers (one of whom had had experience as a Deputy Magistrate and also as a Presidency Magistrate), two were pleaders from the mufassil, and one was an Indian Civilian who had had experience as a Subdivisional Officer, as a District Magistrate and as an Additional District and Sessions Judge.

The Committee further sent round to all District Magistrates who were not examined orally, a questionnaire, which will be found, together with the replies, in Appendix B. They also sent round to the District Judges another questionnaire, which will also be found, together with the replies, in Appendix C.

The Committee also invited an expression of their views from the following associations :—

- The Bengal Chamber of Commerce.
- The Bengal Landholders' Association.
- The Indian Muslim Association.
- The Calcutta Trades Association.
- The European Association.
- The British Indian Association.
- The National Liberal League.
- The Indian Association.
- The Central National Muhammadan Association.
- The Marwari Association.
- The Bengal National Chamber of Commerce.
- The Bengal Presidency Muslim League.
- The British Indian Peoples' Association.

The replies of those associations who expressed their views will be found in Appendix D.

11. We see no practical difficulty in effecting a separation of judicial and executive functions, but we think that in framing any scheme it is desirable—

- (1) that the separation should be as complete as possible,
- (2) that it should disturb existing conditions as little as possible, and
- (3) that, so far as is consistent with efficiency, any increase of cost should be minimised as far as possible.

12. Scheme of separation.—We accordingly recommend that, in order to carry out the separation of such functions in this province, the following scheme be adopted :—

- (a) The hearing of appeals from magistrates with second and third class powers should in future take place not before the District Officer or his subordinates, but before the District and Sessions Judge or some purely judicial officer empowered in that behalf.
- (b) The inspection of criminal courts should be made in future not by the District Officer or his subordinates, but by the District and Sessions Judge or by some purely judicial officer empowered in that behalf, and the responsibility for the efficient working of all the criminal courts in the district and the due despatch of criminal business should rest in future not with the District Officer but with the District and Sessions Judge. We desire to emphasise the necessity of the inspection and supervision of the work of the criminal courts being ordinarily carried out by the District and Sessions Judge himself. Unless this is done, we think that there is a grave risk that the criminal work of the districts may deteriorate.
- (c) The present staff of Deputy Magistrates Deputy Collectors and of Sub-Deputy Magistrates Sub-Deputy Collectors should be divided into two branches, and one should be employed in purely judicial work and the other in purely administrative, executive and revenue work. The control and supervision, including questions of promotion and transfer, of those engaged in purely judicial work should lie exclusively with the judicial authorities and the control and supervision of those engaged in purely administrative work should remain with the District Officer. If and when the scheme is adopted, regard should be had, where possible, to the wishes of the various members of the staff as to the branch to which they should be assigned. After the division is effected, we think that there should be no change for the present in the location of the magisterial staff, that is to say, that they should continue, where possible, to occupy their existing courts and rooms whether at the sadar or the subdivision. We see no practical difficulty in the District and Sessions Judge, or whoever supervises and inspects their work, carrying out these duties at the sadar and subdivisional offices. To remove these officers at once to the Judge's court house would greatly increase the cost of any scheme; but, where additional accommodation is necessitated by the scheme, it should be provided at the Judge's court house rather than at the District Officer's, and ultimately all judicial officers, civil and criminal, at headquarters should be located in the Judge's court house.
- (d) In future recruitment for the Bengal Civil Service and the Subordinate Civil Service should be made direct to the judicial branch and direct to the administrative, executive and revenue branch, change from one branch to the other not being permitted. Some members of the Committee, however, think that change from one branch to the other should be permitted for a period of five or six years, as thereby the wider experience thus gained would be beneficial to both branches.

(e) As regards future members of the Indian Civil Service posted to Bengal, we think that their selection of judicial or executive should be finally made at the expiration of six years' service, those first six years being treated as training and the officer being deputed for substantial periods to one branch or the other. We are aware that proposals have been made from time to time with regard to the improvement of the judicial training of members of the Indian Civil Service, but we do not think that it is within the scope of the reference to this Committee to consider and come to a conclusion upon this question. Some members of the Committee, however, think that in future recruitment for the Indian Civil Service should be made direct for the judicial branch and direct for the revenue, administrative and executive branch.

(f) The High Court should exercise the same control and supervision over the magisterial staff as they now exercise over the civil staff.

13. The preventive sections of the Criminal Procedure Code.—An important question arises which it will be convenient to deal with in a separate paragraph from the other details of the scheme. This question concerns the preventive sections of the Criminal Procedure Code which are contained in Chapters VIII to XII inclusive of that code. Under the present system the powers under these sections are vested in the District Magistrate, the Subdivisional Officer and magistrates with first class powers empowered in that behalf. In Mr. Mitter's scheme these powers were to be taken away from the District Magistrate and from the magistrates under him and transferred to the District and Sessions Judge and to the judicial officers under him; in Mr. Bolton's scheme and in Sir Harvey Adamson's scheme these powers were to be retained by the District Officer and by officers under him. The Committee have heard a considerable amount of evidence on the question of the retention or otherwise by the District Officer and those under him of the present powers given them by the preventive sections. As already stated, they have examined the District Officers of nine districts orally. All these officers consider that the powers under these sections should remain as at present with the District Officer and those under him; three of them, however, see no objection to the trial of all cases under these sections being transferred to the District and Sessions Judge or those under him, provided there is no delay. As regards the views of the remainder, three see no objection to trials under section 107 taking place before a judicial officer, four see no objection to trials under section 110 taking place before a judicial officer, provided the trial be held locally, five would not object to motions against conditional orders passed under section 133 being heard by a judicial officer, and five would not object to section 145 proceedings taking place before a judicial officer. The two District and Sessions Judges whom we examined both thought that the power of initiating or drawing up proceedings under these sections should remain as at present, but that the hearing should take place before a judicial officer. The Divisional Commissioner whom we examined thought that all cases under these sections should be tried by a judicial officer, whilst the Additional District Magistrate whom we examined would retain as at present all powers under these sections, except that he would allow cases under sections 109, 110 and 145 to be tried by a judicial officer. Two of the three Subdivisional Officers would retain the powers as at present, whilst the other would retain the powers under sections 133, 144 and 145 for urgent cases, letting the other powers be exercised by a judicial officer. Of the two barristers whom we examined, one of whom, as stated, is an ex-Deputy Magistrate with experience in the subdivisions, one would give all the powers to the District and Sessions Judge and the other would have the hearing of all proceedings before a judicial officer.

Of the two pleaders examined, both would leave the initiation of proceedings with the District and Subdivisional Officers, subsequent proceedings to take place before a judicial officer. One would, however, leave the District and Subdivisional Officers their powers under section 144 unimpaired, and saw no objection to their passing emergency orders under the other sections. The other saw no objection to the District and Subdivisional Officers passing orders under sections 133 and 144, provided that such orders could be subsequently challenged in courts of law. This witness was opposed to trials of section 110 cases taking place locally, thinking that the accused was thereby prejudiced in obtaining legal assistance.

Of the seventeen District Magistrates whom we did not examine orally but who replied to the questionnaire, all were in favour of the District Officer and those at present exercising powers under these sections retaining the power to initiate proceedings; twelve of them, however, saw no objection to the trial of proceedings under these sections being before a judicial officer.

Of the associations whose opinions we invited, one only dealt with this question, expressing the opinion that the power of initiation should remain as at present in urgent cases, but that proceedings under sections 107, 108, 110, 133, 144 and 145 should take place before a judicial officer.

In some of the oral evidence which we have taken and in some of the replies which we have received, some stress has been laid upon the fact that the powers under these sections are in the nature of executive acts, and that the proceedings are only quasi-judicial. As the District and Subdivisional Officers will, under the scheme submitted, still remain liable for the peace and order of the districts, it would manifestly be impossible to deprive them of these powers entirely, at the same time it seems to us impossible to say that the proceedings thereunder are not, at any rate at some stages, judicial proceedings. Consequently, if things remained as at present, executive officers would still be exercising some judicial functions and the separation of functions would not be complete. At the same time it is impossible always to be strictly logical and, if we were satisfied that the peace and order of the district depended on things remaining as at present as regards the preventive sections, we should not hesitate so to recommend, even if thereby some executive and judicial functions overlapped.

After considering the evidence, we recommend that the powers of the District Officer and those under him under the preventive sections shall be modified in the following manner:—

- (1) In ordinary cases under sections 107, 108, 109 and 110, when the District Officer requires a person to show cause, the proceedings shall be sent for trial before a judicial officer, but in cases of emergency which arise under these sections and when immediate action is necessary, it shall be open to the District Officer and those empowered to act under these sections themselves to make orders under the sections, but, where they make such orders, they shall state their reasons in writing and an appeal against the orders shall lie to the District and Sessions Judge. The Committee are agreed that all cases under section 110 should be tried locally as at present and that opportunity for obtaining legal assistance should be freely given.
- (2) Section 137 shall be modified so as to provide that, if a person bound down conditionally under section 133 appears to show cause, the proceedings shall be heard before a judicial officer, but, if the order is made absolute, the District Officer shall be the person to enforce it under section 140 and the following sections.
- (3) The hearing of proceedings under sections 145 and 147 shall be before a judicial officer, initiation of proceedings and the power to make provisional orders under the last proviso of section 145(4) remaining as at present with the District Officer and those under him.
- (4) Any appeal under section 406 of the Criminal Procedure Code shall go to the District and Sessions Judge.

If these suggestions are adopted, it will be necessary, in order to secure speedy disposal of cases, that the District Officer should forward the proceedings to the District and Sessions Judge with a request that they should be speedily disposed of, and that a High Court order should require the District and Sessions Judge to give effect to the request and secure the speedy disposal of all matters thus marked as urgent.

14. Amendment of the Criminal Procedure Code.—The adoption of the proposals outlined in the last two paragraphs will necessitate extensive amendments of the Criminal Procedure Code and of other Acts. Such amendments must be consequential on any scheme, and we have not thought it necessary in this report to indicate the amendments which will be necessary. This will be a matter for the Legislative Department in the event of this or any other scheme being adopted.

15. Cost.—It remains for us to consider whether the carrying out of the proposals for separation outlined in paragraph 12 will involve any and if so what additional cost. It will be convenient to consider this under three main heads as follows: Firstly, whether the transfer of the appellate functions of the District Magistrate and of his revisional functions and of the inspection of criminal courts to the District and Sessions Judge or to those under him will involve any additional staff or the provision of any additional accommodation. Secondly, whether the separation of functions at the headquarters of the district will involve the provision of additional staff and additional accommodation. Thirdly, whether the like separation in the subdivisions will involve any similar additions.

We propose to state here the method adopted by the Committee in calculating the cost of any additional officers and staff and of buildings which the scheme outlined above in their opinion necessitates, the same method being adopted where a saving is shown. The Committee upon enquiry were not able to obtain an average figure based on the grade pay of the additional officers and staff required, and they have accordingly adopted for the basis of their calculations the following figures, which must be taken as approximate only.

Where an extra officer of the rank of District and Sessions Judge is required, they have calculated the pay of such an officer at Rs. 1,750 a month, of a District Magistrate and Collector at Rs. 1,500, of a Sub-Judge at Rs. 1,000, of a Deputy Magistrate and of a Deputy Collector at Rs. 500, of a Sub-Deputy Magistrate and of a Sub-Deputy Collector at Rs. 250 and of a peon at Rs. 15. Some members of the Committee think that a saving might be effected by appointing Subordinate Judges or senior Deputy Magistrates to fill the superior posts.

Where in subdivisions or at headquarters additional accommodation is necessitated, they have based their calculations on a rough estimate furnished by the Public Works Department, who estimate that the provision of an additional court room or of an additional room added to existing buildings, measuring 25 feet by 18 feet, would cost approximately Rs. 3,500. In a few cases, where additional accommodation is required at headquarters, a sum in excess of this estimate has been allowed.

16. The hearing of appeals and inspection.—Appeals from second and third class magistrates are, as already stated, heard at the present time by the District Magistrate or by the Additional District Magistrate, where there is one, or by a senior Deputy Magistrate at headquarters. Inspection is carried out by the District Magistrate or by the Additional District Magistrate, where there is one, and criminal motions, etc., are similarly dealt with. We have ascertained from the District Magistrates the time now occupied in these duties, and the result of our enquiries is set out below.

Bakarganj.—The greater part of the time of the Additional District Magistrate is occupied in criminal work.

Bankura.—Appeals occupy four to five hours weekly; inspection two weeks a year.

Birbhum.—One quarter of time occupied.

Bogra.—One-third of time occupied.

Burdwan.—One quarter of time occupied.

Chittagong.—One-fifth, if no Additional District Magistrate.

- Dacca*.—Six hours a day, that is, three-fourths of the time of the Additional District Magistrate.
- Dinajpur*.—One-third of time occupied.
- Faridpur*.—Two-fifths of time occupied, actual court work occupying one-eighth of the time, as petty appeals are heard by a Deputy Magistrate.
- Howrah*.—Rather less than one-fourth of time occupied.
- Hooghly*.—One-third of time occupied.
- Jessore*.—Two-sevenths of time occupied in criminal work, including the hearing of appeals.
- Jalpaiguri*.—One quarter of time occupied.
- Khulna*.—One-fifth of time occupied.
- Midnapore*.—One half of the time of the Additional District Magistrate is occupied in normal times. The District Magistrate occupies three weeks a year in inspecting the outlying subdivisions for both revenue and criminal purposes.
- Murshidabad*.—Criminal appeals occupy four hours a week, other criminal work one quarter of an hour daily ; inspection occupies five days a year.
- Mymensingh*.—One half of the time of the Additional District Magistrate is occupied in criminal appeals and motions and the District Magistrate occupies three days a year in inspecting each of the outlying subdivisions and he hears some three or four references a year against acquittals.
- Nadia*.—One hour a day, appeals being heard by a Deputy Magistrate.
- Pabna*.—Three hours a day.
- 24-Parganas*.—Four-fifths of the time of the Additional District Magistrate is occupied and the District Magistrate hears exceptional cases and exceptional appeals.
- Darjeeling and the Chittagong Hill Tracts are not included in this table.

We have submitted the results of the enquiries embodied in the above table to the District and Sessions Judges of the different districts, in order to ascertain whether they could undertake the additional duties which would be thrown upon them by the change without the provision of any additional staff, or whether any additional staff will be required.

The District and Sessions Judge of Bakarganj states that the second Additional District and Sessions Judge, who acted for eight months in 1919 and 1920, and for nine months in 1921, should be made permanent. He suggests that this would necessitate the usual ministerial staff. He further suggests that a Sub-Judge should be vested with the powers of an Assistant Sessions Judge and empowered to hear appeals from second and third class magistrates. We recommend that the second Additional District and Sessions Judge should be made permanent at an approximate annual additional cost of Rs. 7,000. His staff could be furnished from that of the Additional District Magistrate, whom we think no longer necessary.

The District and Sessions Judge of Bankura states that he could hear appeals and carry out his inspections without additional assistance.

The District and Sessions Judge of Birbhum says that he would require the assistance of a Sub-Judge for three months in the year to enable him to carry out this work. We think this estimate is reasonable, and it would involve an approximate additional expenditure of Rs. 3,000 annually, taking the salary of a Sub-Judge at Rs. 1,000 a month.

The District and Sessions Judge of Bogra, who is also the District and Sessions Judge of Pabna, suggests that it would be necessary to appoint a whole time District and Sessions Judge for Bogra. The effect of this would be to give Bogra a whole time District and Sessions Judge of its own, who, with the assistance of the Sub-Judge there, who now acts as an Assistant Sessions Judge, could deal with the additional work resulting from separation. This seems to us reasonable and would involve an additional approximate expenditure of Rs. 21,000 annually for salary (taking the salary of a District and Sessions Judge at Rs. 1,750 monthly) and the cost of his establishment which we estimate at Rs. 4,000 approximately, taking into account the staff which will be available by transfer from the District Magistrate and from the Judge's civil establishment. Some members of the Committee think that the existing arrangement of the union of Bogra and Pabna should be continued, and an additional Sub-Judge appointed to deal with the increase of work.

The District and Sessions Judge of Burdwan, who is at present assisted during part of the year by an Additional District and Sessions Judge, states that this officer should be made a permanent whole time officer to enable him to cope with the additional duties necessitated by the scheme of division. This seems to us reasonable and would involve an approximate additional annual expenditure of Rs. 10,500.

The District and Sessions Judge of Chittagong suggests that the Additional District and Sessions Judge, who now sits for four months at Chittagong, should sit there each year for six months to enable him to do the additional work. This seems reasonable and would involve an additional annual expenditure of Rs. 3,500.

The District and Sessions Judge of Dacca states that either an Additional District and Sessions Judge should be appointed to cope with the work or an additional Sub-Judge, vested with the powers of an Assistant Sessions Judge and empowered to hear appeals from second and third class magistrates.

We think that the appointment of a Sub-Judge, as suggested by the District and Sessions Judge, would meet the case, and this would involve an additional annual expenditure of Rs. 12,000 for the Judge. The District Judge also states that an additional sherishtadar and two clerks would be necessary. We think that these should be provided by a transfer from the staff of the Additional District Magistrate, who, whether retained or not, will be relieved of his judicial and magisterial work.

The District and Sessions Judge of Dinajpur, who is also District and Sessions Judge of Jalpaiguri and of Darjeeling, thinks that the additional work would necessitate the appointment of a whole time District and Sessions Judge for Dinajpur, and that there should be a separate whole time District and Sessions Judge for Jalpaiguri and Darjeeling. His opinion is supported by the figures which he has laid before us. We think that this demand is reasonable. Some members of the Committee think that the existing arrangement of the union of Dinajpur, Jalpaiguri and Darjeeling should be continued, and an additional Sub-Judge appointed to deal with the increase of work.

The District and Sessions Judge of Faridpur estimates that a full time extra Additional District and Sessions Judge should be appointed in view of the extra work. This estimate seems to us excessive, but we would allow an Additional District and Sessions Judge for six months annually, which would involve an approximate additional expenditure of Rs. 10,500 annually and the provision of additional accommodation at a cost of approximately Rs. 6,000.

The District and Sessions Judge of Hooghly, who is also the District and Sessions Judge of Howrah, estimates that the appointment of an Additional District and Sessions Judge for six months annually will enable the extra work of the two districts to be dealt with. He states that accommodation is available at Chinsurah. We think that there should be a separate District and Sessions Judge for each of the districts of Howrah and Hooghly. We have consulted the Additional District and Sessions Judge of Hooghly stationed at Howrah. His opinion is that a separate Judgeship can be created for Howrah without additional cost. It would probably be necessary to give him the assistance of an Additional District and Sessions Judge for three months every year to enable him to cope with the extra work involved in the separation of functions. We therefore estimate an approximate additional annual expenditure of Rs. 10,500 for the two districts, that is to say, by providing Hooghly with the assistance of an Additional District and Sessions Judge for three months every year and giving Howrah the same assistance.

The District and Sessions Judge of Jessore states that, if the arrangement is adhered to whereby the Additional District and Sessions Judge who also works at Khulna is to work at Jessore for five and a half months in the year, no additional assistance will be necessary.

Under the arrangement recommended for Dinajpur, it will be necessary to appoint a whole time District and Sessions Judge for Jalpaiguri and Darjeeling at an approximate cost of Rs. 21,000 annually for salary and Rs. 4,000 annually for establishment, taking into account the staff which will be available by transfer from the District Magistrate and from the Judge's civil establishment. This would involve the provision of additional accommodation at an approximate cost of Rs. 15,000. As already stated some members of the Committee think that the union of Jalpaiguri, Darjeeling and Dinajpur should continue, and that a Sub-Judge should be appointed to deal with the increase of work.

The District and Sessions Judge of Khulna estimates that, if the Additional District and Sessions Judge who also sits at Jessore and who in 1921 worked in Khulna for eighty-five days, sits in Khulna for an additional eighty-five days in the year, the additional work could be dealt with. This seems reasonable, and the approximate additional annual expenditure would be Rs. 7,000 (i.e., four months at Rs. 1,750).

The work at Malda is done by the District and Sessions Judge of Rajshahi, who states that he will require assistance at Malda. He thinks that a Sub-Judge with powers of an Assistant Sessions Judge should be deputed for this purpose. We think this assistance should be afforded for six months annually at a cost approximately of Rs. 6,000. Some of the Committee, however, think that it is essential to have a responsible head of the magistracy in each district and that, instead of providing an additional Sub-Judge for Rajshahi and Malda combined, a District and Sessions Judge should be appointed for Malda alone.

The District and Sessions Judge of Midnapore states that he would require the Additional District and Sessions Judge, whom he now shares with Burdwan, for the whole year. This seems reasonable and would involve an additional annual expenditure of Rs. 10,500.

The District and Sessions Judge of Murshidabad estimates that he would need the assistance of an Additional District and Sessions Judge for six months every second year. This seems reasonable and would involve an additional annual expenditure of Rs. 5,250.

The District and Sessions Judge of Mymensingh estimates that, if the Sub-Judge, vested with the powers of an Assistant Sessions Judge, who is temporarily posted to Mymensingh, is permanently retained, he could cope with the additional work. This involves no additional cost.

The District and Sessions Judge of Nadia estimates that he would require no additional assistance.

The District and Sessions Judge of Noakhali states that the Additional District and Sessions Judge, who is temporarily posted to Noakhali, should be made permanent, and also thinks that possibly a second Additional District and Sessions Judge would be required for a time. We think that the Additional District and Sessions Judge should be made permanent and this involves no additional cost.

The District and Sessions Judge of Pabna estimates that, if his suggestions as regards Bogra are carried out, no additional assistance would be necessary at Pabna.

The District and Sessions Judge of Rajshahi estimates that no additional assistance would be required if the scheme outlined above for Malda be carried out.

The District and Sessions Judge of Rangpur states that he would require an additional judicial officer to cope with the extra work but, on the figures, we think that no assistance need be given.

The District and Sessions Judge of Tippera estimates that, if the Additional District and Sessions Judge who now sits for eight months in the year be continued throughout the year, he can deal with the work. This seems reasonable and involves an additional annual expenditure of Rs. 7,000.

The District and Sessions Judge of the 24-Parganas estimates that an Additional District and Sessions Judge will be required. We think that it might be possible to deal with the increased work by the appointment of a Sub-Judge. This will cost annually Rs. 12,000, and will involve additional accommodation at a cost of approximately Rs. 15,000.

The additional expenditure accordingly involved in giving the necessary assistance to District and Sessions Judges by reason of the transfer of the District Officer's present judicial and magisterial duties amounts approximately to Rs. 1,54,750 annually, and the cost of additional buildings thereby necessitated amounts approximately to Rs. 36,000.

17. Additional District Magistrates.—In October 1921 there were Additional District Magistrates in the following districts, namely, Bakarganj, Chittagong, Dacca, Midnapore, Mymensingh, Tippera and the 24-Parganas. In Bakarganj the greater part of this officer's time is occupied in criminal work, and we think that, if separation is effected, this officer may be abolished. This will effect an annual saving of approximately Rs. 18,000 (counting the monthly salary at Rs. 1,500), but it might be necessary to give an extra Deputy Collector to assist the District Officer at an approximate cost of Rs. 6,000. The net saving would thus be Rs. 12,000.

In Chittagong three-fifths of the time of the Additional District Magistrate is occupied in criminal work, and we think that, if separation is effected, this officer may be abolished at a net annual saving of Rs. 12,000, allowing for the cost of an additional Deputy Collector at Rs. 6,000.

In Dacca three-fourths of the time of the Additional District Magistrate is occupied in criminal work, and the Commissioner of the Dacca Division, whom we examined, thought that on separation this officer might be dispensed with. Upon the figures this is so, but Dacca is a large district with the second largest city in the province as its headquarters, and we understand that difficulties might be occasioned if the officer were abolished, even if assistance were given to the District Officer by the appointment of an extra Deputy Collector. Some of us think that it might be possible on separation to abolish this officer, others think otherwise, and we have accordingly not taken into account any saving that might be effected by the abolition of this officer.

In Midnapore and Mymensingh half the time of the Additional District Magistrates is occupied in criminal work, but in these districts we think that an Additional District Officer must remain. Some members of the Committee, however, think that these officers might be dispensed with and selected Deputy Collectors appointed in their place.

In Tippera one-third of the Additional District Magistrate's time is occupied in criminal work, and we think that on separation this officer should be abolished at a net saving of Rs. 12,000, allowing an extra Deputy Collector at Rs. 6,000 to assist the District Officer.

In the 24-Parganas four-fifths of the time of the Additional District Magistrate is taken up in criminal work. The District Magistrate admits that upon the figures this officer should be abolished upon separation being effected, but he states that he cannot properly administer the district without his assistance, and that at the present time there is not sufficient inspection done of the district generally. For the purposes of this report, we assume a net saving of Rs. 12,000 annually, allowing an extra Deputy Collector to assist the District Officer. Under the head of Additional District Magistrates there will thus upon separation be a gross saving of Rs. 72,000 annually, but an increase of Rs. 24,000 annually by the provision of four Deputy Collectors, making a net saving of Rs. 48,000 annually. Some members of the Committee think that it is not necessary to allow additional Deputy Collectors in the districts of Bakarganj, Chittagong, Tippera and the 24-Parganas.

18. District headquarters.—So far as the headquarters of the districts are concerned, it will be possible to divide the existing staff between the executive and judicial branches without any considerable increase of staff. There is no doubt that the present system has great advantages so far as elasticity is concerned. Under it, when criminal work is for the time being on the increase, it is possible to deal with the increase by deputing for criminal work those who ordinarily devote most of their time to revenue and administrative work, and vice versa. This will no longer be possible when separation is affected, and so it is necessary, in making the division, to secure that there is an adequate staff in all branches capable in normal times of dealing with the work. In some districts this involves an increase of staff. Where for example the time at present of $2\frac{1}{2}$ officers is occupied in criminal work and that of $2\frac{1}{2}$ officers in revenue and administration work, and five officers could do the work at headquarters under the existing system, it may be necessary to have six officers, three for each branch, by reason of the separation of functions.

We have considered whether further assistance could be obtained from the Honorary Magistrates, sitting either singly or in benches. There seem a large number of them in every district (as shown in the Civil List), but we are told that their attendance with some exceptions is irregular, and that, whilst often the quality of their work is good, their irregularity of attendance, with the resulting slow disposals, makes it unlikely that any real relief can be obtained from this source. Some members of the Committee, however, think that more use could be made of Honorary Magistrates, and that the recommendation of names for appointment should come through the judicial officers or through a Committee consisting of the District and Sessions Judge, the District Officer and a representative of the local bar, and that regular attendance should be made a condition of such service, and that Honorary Magistrates should be subject to immediate removal in case of inefficiency or non-attendance.

We are not unmindful that, if division takes place, it may be possible to employ in the trial of criminal cases both Sub-Judges and Munsifs, but these officers are already fully occupied with civil work and their employment in criminal cases would necessitate an increase in their number. We have worked out in the schedules for the different districts, which accompany this report, the additional staff necessitated at district headquarters by the proposed change, showing in the first column the existing staff and the numbers of those with first, second or third class powers. In the second column we have shown the time at present occupied by them in criminal work and in the third and fourth columns the estimated staff required for the separated functions. The fifth column shows the increased staff in our opinion necessitated by the separation, and columns 6 and 7 give the increase of clerical and other staff and of buildings necessitated by the change, and the last two columns contain an estimate of the total cost which the change will necessitate recurring and non-recurring. In the remarks column we have indicated the assistance which, in our opinion, should be given to the District and Sessions Judge and the additional accommodation required.

So far as the clerical staff at headquarters is concerned, this in some districts is divided into those dealing with criminal matters and those dealing with revenue and administration. Where there is no such division, this can probably be effected without difficulty. We do not think that this should involve any considerable increase of the clerical staff. We have been told that in some districts a large increase of this staff will be necessary, but we are inclined to think that, if a spirit of accommodation is displayed, this will not be necessary. Again it is said that difficulties would occur by reason of the staff being in one room, part after division being under the control of the District Magistrate and part under that of the District Judge, and that difficulties would also occur with regard to the head clerk, and that an additional head clerk might be necessary, so that each staff might have a separate head.

Doubtless it will be better if separate accommodation be provided, but to give full effect to this would render the scheme unduly costly, and we are not convinced of the immediate necessity for this, although ultimately it may be necessary. For the present we think that it will be sufficient if the existing accommodation is re-arranged where necessary. We estimate as a round figure for the twenty-five district headquarters with which we are dealing an annual additional expenditure of Rs. 12,500 for the provision of additional clerical staff. So far as process-serving is concerned, at present the same staff under one nazir serve both criminal and revenue processes, and it is suggested that, after division of functions, this arrangement would not be satisfactory. If a division of the process-serving staff is necessary, this might be effected either by transferring the staff for the service of criminal judicial processes to the District Judge and by making the civil nazir the head of both staffs, or by dividing the staff and appointing an additional nazir. Under this head, for increase of process-servers and the provision of additional headquarters nazirs, we would estimate as a round figure for the twenty-five district headquarters an increased annual cost of approximately Rs. 12,500.

The estimated increased cost at headquarters necessitated by the scheme is approximately Rs. 63,040 recurring (that is to say, Rs. 38,040 for personnel, Rs. 12,500 for increase of clerical staff, and Rs. 12,500 for increase of the process-serving staff), and non-recurring approximately Rs. 14,000.

19. Subdivisions.—The division of functions in the subdivisions presents some difficulty, especially in the smaller ones. In these the staff consists as a rule of one Deputy Magistrate Deputy Collector, who is the Subdivisional Officer, and of a Sub-Deputy Collector with one or more Circle Officers who tour some twenty days a month.

In the ordinary small subdivision it would be necessary, we think, to have in all cases two officers of the position of Deputy Collector, one of whom would be the Subdivisional Magistrate employed solely in judicial work, the other being the Subdivisional Officer employed solely in revenue and administration work. This would involve in small subdivisions, where there is at present a Deputy Magistrate Deputy Collector and a Sub-Deputy Magistrate Sub-Deputy Collector, the additional cost of having a Deputy Collector in place of a Sub-Deputy Collector, but this is not all. The Subdivisional Officer tours some ninety days a year, and is often ten or fifteen days away from the subdivisional headquarters. This therefore necessitates, unless the sub-treasury is to be closed during his absence, the provision of an additional Sub-Deputy Collector in each of the smaller subdivisions to open the sub-treasury in the absence of the Subdivisional Officer on tour. But for this he would not be required, and he is in some sense a redundancy necessitated by the division of functions.

We have considered if there is any way to avoid this. The Subdivisional Magistrate clearly could not perform the duty of opening the sub-treasury. He will be under the control and direction of the District Judge, with no responsibility to the Subdivisional Officer or to the District Officer. The only alternative suggested is that one or other of the Circle Officers, where there are Circle Officers, should be deputed for this duty in the absence of the Subdivisional Officer on tour, but this would partially remove the Circle Officers from the performance of the special duties for which they were appointed. Consequently in many of the smaller subdivisions, where communications are bad and where the Subdivisional Officer when touring is absent for some days from his headquarters, division of functions involves the appointment of an additional Sub-Deputy Collector, unless the Circle Officers are utilised for opening the sub-treasuries in the absence on tour of the Subdivisional Officers, and we are disposed to recommend that this latter alternative be accepted. The provision of an additional officer would also in some cases necessitate the provision of additional accommodation in the smaller subdivisions. Most subdivisional offices are already, it is stated, over crowded and cannot accommodate an additional officer. It was suggested to us in evidence that it might be possible so to re-arrange the revenue work at the district headquarters that more might be devolved on the subdivisions, so that, the cost of an additional officer in the subdivision might be compensated for by a decrease of the headquarters' staff. But this involves the consideration of matters which we think are outside the scope of our enquiry and we have not pursued the matter.

A difficulty and possible increase of cost arises with regard to housing. In the subdivisions the Subdivisional Officer is provided with a house rent-free, and it is suggested that the Subdivisional Magistrate, an officer of equal rank, will also expect a house to be provided. Moreover it is said that this in any case will be necessary owing to the difficulty in most subdivisions of finding any housing accommodation whatsoever. If the Subdivisional Officer is provided with a house rent-free, the Subdivisional Magistrate must be treated on an equal footing and given a house allowance, which would involve for the fifty-four subdivisions an expenditure of approximately Rs. 32,400 annually. Some of us, however, think that both officers should pay rent for any housing accommodation which is provided. The same questions arise in the subdivisions as at headquarters with regard to the clerical staff and the service of processes, but it is not necessary to discuss this again in this connection, and we think that the combined process-serving may remain in the subdivisions as heretofore, until it is proved by experience that difficulties arise. If there is to be a separation of process-serving, this would involve the appointment of an additional nazir and possibly of additional process-servers, which we estimate approximately would involve an additional cost of say Rs. 12,500 for the subdivisions. We would add Rs. 12,500 for additional clerical assistance.

In the schedules already referred to will be found similar figures with regard to the subdivisions to those set out with regard to headquarters. We estimate the additional cost of the scheme in the subdivisions at Rs. 3,41,860 recurring and Rs. 1,03,000 non-recurring. The recurring expenditure is made up of Rs. 2,84,460 for personnel (in respect of which a saving of Rs. 63,000 could be effected if the Circle Officer opens the sub-treasury when the Subdivisional Officer is on tour) and Rs. 25,000 for extra clerical assistance and for process-servers and Rs. 32,400 for housing allowance.

20. Assistance required by the High Court by reason of the scheme.—

The Committee addressed the High Court in order to ascertain whether, in their opinion, the transfer of the control and supervision of magistrates to the High Court, as recommended in paragraph 12 (f) of this report, would necessitate the provision of any additional assistance. To this enquiry the High Court replied that a large measure of additional assistance, involving considerable expenditure, would be necessary, but that they were not prepared at that time upon short notice to state what form the additional assistance should take. Accordingly it should be borne in mind, in calculating the cost of the scheme, that the cost of possible additional assistance to the High Court must be taken into account. As against this, however, must be set a possible saving to be effected in the staff of the Local Government which now deals with this work.

21. We sum up the cost of our proposals as follows :—

Recurring Expenditure.				Rs.
At headquarters—
Personnel (gazetted staff)	38,040
Additional clerical assistance	12,500
Additional process-serving staff	12,500
In subdivisions—
Personnel (gazetted staff)	2,84,460
Additional clerical assistance	12,500
Additional process-serving staff	12,500
Housing allowance	32,400
Cost of assistance to District Judges by reason of the transfer of appeals, inspection, etc., and cost of the additional clerical staff occasioned by the creation of new District Judgeships ...				1,54,750
				<hr/> 5,59,650
Savings by abolition of Additional District Magistrates ...				48,000
				<hr/> 5,11,650
Savings by utilising Circle Officers for opening sub-treasuries ...				63,000
				<hr/> 4,48,650
Total net recurring expenditure ...				<hr/>

Non-recurring expenditure (buildings).

					Rs.
At headquarters	14,000
In subdivisions	1,03,000
To District Judges' courts	36,000
Total non-recurring cost	1,53,000

The accompanying table shows how this cost is apportioned among the different districts of the province.

We desire to emphasise the fact that, although we have tried to arrive at as accurate an estimate as possible, the figures can only be regarded as approximate.

22. The thanks of the Committee are due to their Secretary, Mr. Hubert Graham, I.C.S., for his promptitude in dealing with the work and for the care and attention bestowed upon it, which have greatly lightened the labours of the Committee.

A Note of Dissent on the Report regarding the separation of the Judicial and Executive Functions.

It is not without regret that I submit this note of dissent on a vital point, with regard to which my colleagues and I could not see eye to eye, or even effect a settlement satisfactory to all. My regret is all the more, as throughout our labour we were able to square our differences and come to an agreement in every matter, which came up before us for decision.

The difference, which has resulted in this note of dissent, is with regard to the preventive sections of the Criminal Procedure Code which are contained in Chapters VIII to XII inclusive of that Code.

I am of opinion that the powers under these sections should be taken away from the executive officers and transferred to the District Judges and judicial officers under them. I am prepared to allow the executive officers to retain the power of initiating or drawing up proceedings under these sections, but the hearing should take place before a judicial officer.

I am not unmindful of cases of emergency, which may arise under these sections, necessitating immediate action, but I do not see any reason why such cases will not be expeditiously dealt with by judicial officers, if there be a High Court order, as recommended by us in the report, requiring judicial officers to speedily dispose of all matters marked as urgent by executive officers.

If, however, the Government think that in the interest of law and order the executive officers should be allowed themselves to make orders under sections 107, 108, 109 and 110, in cases of emergency, I should certainly like to restrict such powers to the District Officers and to the Subdivisional Officers only. By this I mean that officers under them should under no circumstances be empowered to make orders under these sections. I should also like to provide that such orders of the District Officer should always be revised by the District Judge, and those of the Subdivisional Officers by the subdivisional judicial officers, so that the convicted parties may obtain immediate relief on the spot, if law is on their side. Such a provision will virtually give the District and Subdivisional Officers power to make only conditional orders, in cases of emergency which may arise under these sections. When I urge for it, I certainly do not apprehend injustice in the hands of the executive officers, but I really do so as, in my opinion, no separation of the judicial and executive functions can be properly effected without transferring the powers under the aforesaid preventive sections from the executive to the judicial officers.

I am also opposed to the executive officers being vested with the power to make provisional orders under the last proviso of section 145 (4).

CALCUTTA,

The 21st January 1922.

A Note on Honorary Magistrates of Bengal.

I am deliberately of opinion that, in order to minimise the cost of effecting a complete separation of the judicial and executive functions, and with a view to increase the quality and quantity of work done by Honorary Magistrates, the inefficient amongst them should be got rid of, but their numerical strength, on the whole, should be considerably increased. Suitable men, in my opinion, are available, but they must be sought and taken in by careful selection on improved methods of recruitment. To properly develop and augment this source, it is desirable—

- (1) that Honorary Magistrates should be appointed by the Local Government on the recommendation of the High Court ;
- (2) that the District Judge should forward to the High Court names of such persons as are willing and qualified to be Honorary Magistrates with full particulars of each ;
- (3) that not only the judicial magistrates of every subdivision, but also recognised public bodies, such as Municipalities, District Boards and Local Boards, should be invited to forward to the District Judge names of such persons as are willing and qualified to be Honorary Magistrates ;
- (4) that the High Court should make such binding rules and regulations, on the basis of an agreement, as will ensure regular attendance on the part of and speedy disposal of cases by Honorary Magistrates ;
- (5) that Honorary Munsifs should be appointed, on cautious experimental lines, to try petty civil cases, so that both Sub-Judges and Munsifs may be employed, on grounds of economy, in the trial of important criminal cases, when the separation is effected ;
- (6) that the Government should appoint a representative committee to elaborately deal with the question and formulate a practical scheme, if possible, on lines herein suggested.

Additional Notes.

For the purpose of our joint report, I should like to add that, as the committee had to form their opinion with regard to the numerical strength of the staff and extra accommodation required on the figures placed before them, assuming that they were correct and unalterable, it is highly desirable that Government should carefully test the accuracy of those figures and see if economy could be effected by revising the daily routine of officers concerned and reorganising their work, with an eye to economy and retrenchment.

I should also like to add, with a view to avoid additional expenditure, that it may not be found necessary to keep both the Board of Revenue and Commissioners of Divisions, when the whole system is reorganised under the present scheme, if it is given effect to.
